Are you always connected to others?

When people meet other people, they build connections. Communication is always what's between two people. From this communication we'll show you a wonderful tapestry of human relations, and a fantasy that occurs as part of everyday life.

Connect with others (Tsungari), Connect other (Tsunageru) → That's "GARIGERU".

1) Carrying Mother

The talent will carry their mother on their back, while the mother listens to a recorded message by the talent through earphones. A sentimental form of "communication" where a child carries their mother on their back without ever directly speaking to her.

2) A journey of thanks throughout Japan

We'll speak to people on the street, and have them call someone that they'd like to say "thanks" to. And then we'll go see that person themselves, in the process going through the entire nation of Japan.

3) Stop at every station! A journey of names

We'll stop at every station on the Nankai Kouya line and ask the people in that town their names, attempting to fill in a list of every letter in the Japanese alphabet.

4) An outsiders Journey through 100 years of Okinawa

We'll find and interview people who moved to Okinawa from other places in Japan. We'll ask them how long they've lived there, and then advance that many years in kilometers. (10 years would be 10 kilometers.) A journey from Naha to Yonahadake of approximately 100km.

We're planning on lots of other things too!

ニッポン!おもてなし旅

How will the "welcomer" satisfy the traveler on a weekend getaway trip?

Each time, a "traveler" will visit a different town. There, they will be met by a "welcomer". The town might be the "welcomer"'s hometown, or a town famous for a hobby they enjoy, or perhaps one they're not at all familiar with, but one they've studied about in hopes of pleasing a "traveler" that they've always admired. There will be many different types of "welcomers". But each one will be a guide responsible for making the trip one "traveler" will never forget.

Each episode the "welcomer" will prepare a "welcome menu" based off of the program's theme! The theme will be something like "Meet wonderful new people!" "Famous local foods" "Sights you must see" "Things you can only experience here." "Secret Spots", etc... The program will be filled with information you can only get here.
